

it's all about the salt

Murray River salt is tapped from the pure underground saline waters that have been present and lying dormant for thousands of years in Australia's Murray / Darling River region

This inland salt contains the naturally occurring minerals and elements resulting in a high quality product with a unique flavour. The accumulation of minerals comes out during the salt's 100% natural processing with a uniquely Australian salt being produced

By using this salt we are improving the environment and assisting with Australia's serious inland salinity problem
